

Our Network. Your Networking.

Our NETWORK. Your NETWORKING. Connecting talent with opportunity.

Are you an EMPLOYER faced with the prospect of recruiting new employees in a challenging market?
Does your organization require an on-campus TALENT sourcing strategy?

Are you a CAMPUS CAREER COUNSELLOR responsible for helping students enter the job market?

If you answered yes to any of these questions, the smartest move you can make is to become a member of the Canadian Association of Career Educators and Employers (CACEE). Our association has a dual and complementary role: we provide the tools, resources, and network necessary for employers to become competitive in recruiting qualified graduates and for career educators to build services and programs to help new graduates transition into the labour force. In other words, we are the intermediary between employers that need talent and the colleges and universities that supply it. Our services are indispensable, especially in today's ever-changing labour climate, where competition for top talent in demand threatens to leave the unprepared employer scrambling. So whether you need to hire new graduates, replace outgoing workers, or augment your existing workforce, joining CACEE will provide you with invaluable help. Become a member today. At CACEE, we connect talent with opportunity.

Linking the Academic World and the Labour Market

CACEE is a national partnership between employer recruiters and on-campus career services professionals. We offer invaluable professional networking opportunities for the benefit of all members.

Both campus career centres and employers have membership in CACEE, in equal measure. And both benefit from many helpful services, including access to new ideas, resources, data, consultations, professional development opportunities and more.

Benefits Specific to Career Educators:

- Build key relationships with employers;
- Stay abreast of developments in the labour market;
- Increase employment rates for new graduates, thanks to a first-rate network;
- Help new graduates and intern/co-op students find jobs suited to their specific skill sets;
- Network with other career educators and learn about best practices in the school-to-work transition.

Benefits Specific to Employers:

- Attract, recruit and retain the right talent on campus;
- Receive a complimentary copy of the annual campus hiring survey which provides an overview of campus recruitment (internships, co-ops and full-time hires);
- Gain access to the Career Fair Calendar;
- Keep informed through the Employer Guide to Canadian Campuses, a database containing valuable information (planned information sessions, key contacts at educational institutions, and more);
- Meet career centre professionals working in educational institutions, notably through regional and national conferences and events, paving the way to build constructive relationships;
- Network with other employers and learn about their recruitment processes and best practices.
